Question Asked	Answer Given
Aparrt from the grants or personal bursaries, has The Netherlands "agreements" with Colombian organizations to fund PhD students?	Yes, we have an agreement with Minciencias that you can obtain a scholarship when you have a letter of admittance from a Dutch Research University
Arnold Tukker: I see that most of my PhDs that have partners, manage to get a job. Spouse programs for PhD students are rare though.	Sharing
Arnold Tukker: you need to have your MSc degree before you can enroll in a PhD program. But if you are sure of your rough MSc graduation date, say August 2020, it is ok to apply now already.	Sharing
But do this "agreements" consist colfuturo and icetex of?	No we only have a specific agreement with minciencias, but i am sure Colfuturo and Icetex will be helping when you have a letter of admittance from a Dutch university.
Can you make a living for you and a family (ME, my wife and my little one year old son) by the money you get paid by the PhD as a job?	Sure.,Dear Jorge, Phd as a paid job id paid overall to 3500 euro a month. That is enough for living on average. For buying a house for instance, your partner also have to have a job
Can you take classes in the university?	That is not common. You will need all your time for the PhD
Do I have to look for a tutor and then for a scholarship? Or at the same time both?	Normally in The Netherlands you will find a tutor and can then apply for a scholarship

Good day, thank you very much for your presentation. I have one question: ¿Is there a limit of age to do a PhD in the Netherlands or to apply for a grant?	The age limit for grants depends on the grant... There is no age limit for applying for a paid PhD job. Applying for a PhD job opening on AcademicTransfer has no age limit. Age limits can be set by scholarship providers. It depends.
Good morning, I can to have the presentation?	Hi Diana, yes, the downloadable link will be presented afterwards in the FAQ.

I am from Colombia, I live in Brazil so I am studying a master's degree. Can I apply with you for a PhD scholarship that is not with Colfuturo or Colciencias?	Yes sure.
I have a masters in Health and Clinical Psychology, the program was based on clinical training and had no thesis as requirement for graduation, is this kind of program considered a postgraduate/master program in the Netherlands?	It is probably the professor who has to decide if it is sufficient to start a PhD. Nuffic organization in the Netherlands does also diploma evaluation from abroad, you can contact them.
I studied 3 month in Rotterdam, manager ports operations... You are a beautiful society...congratulations...you are example for the humanity	Thank you :) (almost) all countries are beautiful in their own ways :)
I'm currently enrolled in a Master's program, I might finish it this year. Should I wait to get the degree to start applying or is it ok to start applying now?	Hi David, yes, that is the best option
I'm currently finishing a PhD in a Colombian university in humanities, is it likely for me to obtain funding in order to complete another PhD or should I look for postdoc opportunities?	Depends on your scholarship provider. Some won't give a PhD scholarship twice. You can always apply for a postdoc on AcademicTransfer
I'm going to do a PhD in October, and my wife will go with me, she is a dentist but is interested in doing a speciality in Orthodontics, but we have not found information from that area in any webpage of Netherlands. So I have two questions.	Hi Roberto, there are several universities in The Netherlands offering Orthodontics, namely University of Groningen, Radboud university, University of Amsterdam, for instance acta.nl
Is it easier to apply to a PhD opportunity where there is already a project in progress and you have to adjust to it, rather than looking for your own financing and a supervisor to work on a project that interests you?	Applying for a paid phd position is in competition with all masters worldwide. So, i do not know if that is 'easier'... :)
Is it mandatory to have the IELTS certificate?	Normally TOEFL or IELTS are asked, the height depends on the professor or faculty
